Full or Random Exposure, High or Low Sheen

Full exposure is where the surface is ground to see the full stone. Random exposure requires less surface grinding so high spots of the concrete surface reveal some stone and low spots reveal little stone exposure.

A high sheen finish will give you an almost mirror-like finish, with optimum light reflection, thus saving on energy costs.

A low sheen finish will create moderate light reflectivity but still with low maintenance and ease of cleaning.

You Yang

Mentone Pre Mix, Melbourne's premier specialty concrete company, has the largest range of exposed aggregate in Victoria.

To assist you with choosing the mix that will enhance your property features we have over 50 aggregate mixes on display at our Mentone Pre Mix showroom. We also have an extensive database of properties all over Melbourne featuring our mixes so we can showcase the mix you like.

Mentone Pre Mix uses locally sourced products to ensure we keep our prices competitive and affordable for everyone to achieve a beautiful driveway or entertainment area. If you require something more unique, we will source materials as requested and personalise a mix design for you.

Types of finishes

Water Wash Finish

Ideal for driveways, pool surrounds and pathways, the water wash finish is a cost effective hard wearing surface.

Grinding and Polishing Finish

More refined than terrazzo flooring, our grinding and polishing finish is suitable for internal floors and outdoor covered areas. The concrete surface is ground and buffed to give you a mirror-like finish.
